

There were seven contestants for the Regents medal at the North Tuesday afternoon, and the honors were won by Joe Mathews of Highland. The judges were Rev. J. A. Murtaugh, Rev. Campbell, Rev. Lawson. The senior play presented in the evening by the class of 1914 entitled "A Rose of Plymouth Town" was a beautiful little romance in four acts, at the time of the landing of the Pilgrims in 1620. The costumes and stage settings were typical of this period, and the play itself was well acted under the clever direction of Mrs. Hunt. A fair sized audience greeted the young actors, who were well applauded for their excellent rendition of the various parts.

The reception given Saturday night by Dr. and Mrs. Dearnmont to the Regents, Faculty, and Students, from 8 to 11, was a most delightful affair. The rooms were a mass of beautiful roses and flowers with their foliage of rich green, making the scene a veritable flower garden. The evening was divided into five parts. The first, "Music Hath Charms to Soothe the Savage Beast," was a vocal solo by Prof. Lewis; second, "Was some power giv'n thee to see ourselves as others see us," was amock Fauchet meeting by the Seniors; third, "The by hangs a tale of village gossip" in three parts by Mrs. Hunt, Prof. Douglas and Mr. W. Martin; fourth, "Eat, Drink and be Merry;" fifth, "As You Like It." The program was greatly enjoyed by the many guests present.

Sensible Clubwomen.
Mrs. S. S. Crockett of Nashville, Tenn., is completing the fourth year of service as chairman of the public health department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Previously Mrs. Crockett was chairman of the Health Department in the Tennessee Federation. Her first interest was in the tuberculosis work, inspired by the work of the traveling exhibition of the National Tuberculosis Association. She is a strong believer in the policy of women's clubs co-operating with already established organizations, seeking to get things done through official agencies. She believes in the value of systematic publicity and press work as an educational method; in the value of devoting club programs to the study of methods of getting things done rather than encyclopedic essays on general health subjects; on furnishing free lists and sources of information rather than wasting time and printer's ink on compiling detailed information that a recognized authority has done better.

The bride was beautifully adorned in the early summer blossoms, and the pretty bride in her dainty white gown, made a most charming picture. She was attended by a little niece and nephew of the groom, Helen Wiepertz, and Elmer Almeroth, and by Mrs. B. Almeroth as Matron of Honor, Irving Nieman, as the groom's best man. There were about 75 present at the wedding, and after the ceremony, was served a most elaborate wedding supper. Dancing was enjoyed the balance of the evening, the music being furnished by the Orpheum Theater Orchestra. The young folks left on the 3 o'clock train Sunday morning for St. Louis and were accompanied to the train by the majority of the guests, who gave the happy couple a joyous send-off with rice, old shoes, and the well wishes of everyone present. Mrs. Wiepertz before her marriage was one of the most popular girls of her set and has the best wishes of her many friends for her future happiness. The young couple received many beautiful gifts. After a wedding journey they will return to the Cape where they will make their home.

The songs were sung by three well-known artists of St. Louis, and Prof. Lewis of Cape Girardeau. Mrs. Epstein simply charmed her audience by her magnificent voice, the soft, rich tones of which cast a spell of wonder and admiration over everyone present. Mrs. Charles Austin, whose beautiful soprano voice thrilled the music-lovers, is an artist the Directors should be congratulated upon securing for this splendid occasion. Mr. Albert Gray also of St. Louis and prominent in musical circles, has devoted much of his time to operatic work, and has not only played leading roles in this country, but for several years was baritone of the Opera Comique at Paris, and from there spent some time in London among

They were taken into court and each pleaded guilty in open court and were sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. The arrests were made by Jas. A. Johnson and J. E. Finson, special agents of the Frisco,
